

Jupp family 2019 reflections

My husband, Ken Jupp, was involved in the Chapman Valley Show since the 1970s. He would enter the vegetable, wool and produce sections. He would also, in those days, bring some Carpet snakes, that lived in the hay shed on the property, and have them on display at the show.

I have been involved since the early 1980's. I started by putting in some of my knitting mainly and as the years went on, I started putting in entries for knitting, cooking, flowers, and cake decorating.

The show has got a lot larger over the years. There aren't as many entries in the knitting and cooking as there used to be but there are new sections to enter too. I enjoy being part of the Show.

I remember growing the vegies with my dad when I was a kid. We used to put them in the show together. Now I enter the show with my kids. They have their own things they grow in the vegies patch, and we enjoy picking the vegies and preparing them for the show (although they are not that great at doing the weeding for the garden!)

My wife, Melinda makes preserves and the children like to have a go at the kids cooking section. We all enjoy being involved in the show as a family.

We look forward to it each year.
